

Amy Wright began playing the violin at the age of 4. Since making New York City her home, she has enjoyed an active freelance career playing in the trip-state area. Ms. Wright performs with the Stamford Symphony, the Bronx Arts Ensemble, New Jersey Symphony, Music Sacra, Voices of Ascension and the Manhattan Chamber Orchestra. Ms. Wright has also appeared in several Broadway pit orchestras and has recorded or toured with Alicia Keys, Tony Bennett, Henry Mancini, Keith Jarrett, Red Hurley and Anthony Hamilton.

A graduate of the University of Michigan, Ms. Wright has studied with Ruggiero Ricci, Almita and Roland Vamos, Joyce Robbins and Joey Corpus.

In addition to performing, Ms. Wright serves on the music faculty at the Riverdale Country School, teaching 4th and 5th grade strings and chamber music.
