

Marc Phaneuf is a New York based freelance saxophonist and woodwind doubler. He has performed with Quincy Jones and the LA Philharmonic, The Boston Symphony and Boston Pops, John Williams, Aretha Franklin, Clark Terry, Ray Charles, Tony Bennett, Lou Rawls and Natalie Cole. He plays for Broadway, TV, Motion Pictures and has recorded with Iggy Pop, Deborah Cox, Tony Bennett/Lady Gaga, Vince Giordano and The Nighthawks, and the Pete McGuinness Jazz Orchestra. He has two recordings with Jeff Galindo: "Locking Horns" 1996 and "Talking Horns" 2012.

Marc has taught privately for over thirty years and as a former faculty member at UMass Lowell and LaGuardia High School. He lives in Westchester with his wife, cellist, Mairi Dorman-Phaneuf.